War Relief in U. S. Reaches Big Figure

Contribute Over 51 Million To Sufferers Abroad

WASHINGTON—In a spurge of sympathy for the victims of war abroad, Americans have given $51,700,000 to 294 separate agencies since the forces of Adolf Hitler began marching less than a year and a half ago.

Of this, $25,000,000 has gone to 203 agencies, all but 10 of which have mushroomed in the field atmosphere of war distress. The other $26,700,000 went to the American Red Cross, which was an old and revered relief institution when Mr. Hitler was a nonentity.

About $38,000,000 of money and goods have been sent to the sick and hungry and homeless of the war, $20,000,000 by the Red Cross and the remainder by the wide scattering of other agencies.

Since the war started, Americans have created 238 agencies to help war sufferers and have contributed or arranged to contribute, through 17 other religious or benevolent organizations that were already in existence.

In number of agencies, Poland has had more than any other nation in the United States than any other. It has 108 agencies, of which 17 are for goods for the sick, stricken, or victims of the first area of the war.

Poland has 90 separate agencies functioning in its behalf, some of them organized by the Polish people for the fall of France to aid the allies. Fifty-two agencies still are trying to be helpful to France.

Fifteen agencies are working for the aid of the Jews who have been the special victims of the war. Four are trying to help Belgium. Two each are plugging away for Norway, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands and Greece.

Business Is On Upswing in U. S.
Commerce Department Finds Increase in Retail Sales Over 1939.

WASHINGTON—The Commerce department reports that Americans bought $45,500,000,000 of goods at retail last year, 4.5 per cent more than in 1939 and only 6 per cent short of the 1929 peak.

Three other federal agencies likewise published reports indicative of the general business upswing in the past year.

The Social Security board said that state employment offices placed 3,200,000 persons in private jobs in 1940—the greatest number in any year since the service began in 1933. In addition, there were 537,000 placements in public jobs.

The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation reported that 1940 had fewer bank failures or forced mergers than any year since 1933.

The Federal Reserve board said the defense program boosted factory and equipment expenditures to $22,125,000,000, the highest level since 1923.

Best 1939 Figures.
The Commerce department, in its report on retail sales, said that allowing for population increase and decline in living costs "the 1940 per capita distribution of merchandise in physical terms surpassed that of 1929 by a sizeable margin."

Secretary Jones said the sales had held at the relatively high level of the final 1939 quarter during the first six months, then swung upward, expanding about 16 per cent in the fourth quarter.

Jones described this year-end surge as "a reflection of the substantial increase in employment and income generated by the defense program."

Paul V. McNutt, social security administrator, said the 1940 volume of jobs filled in private industry was 20 per cent higher than in 1939 and reflected the increased use of public employment offices in recruiting the labor for defense and other industries. Counting both public and private placements, there was an increase of nearly 9 per cent over 1939 in jobs filled.

16,500,000 Applicants.
The number of 1940 applications for work totaled more than 16,500,000—the largest received in any year in the history of the U. S. employment service.

The FIDIC reported that 43 banks were either closed outright or merged with corporation financial aid in order to save them from closing in 1940. This compared with 60 in 1939, 74 in 1938, 75 in 1937, 60 in 1936 and 25 in 1935. Officials said the reason for few failures in 1939 and 1938 was the veering out of weak banks during the 1933 banking holiday.

The Federal Reserve bank, in its monthly bulletin, estimated that 1940 factory and equipment expenditures represented a $3,000,000,000 gain over 1939, but lacked a similar amount of equalling 1929.

Estimates prepared by George Terborgh, board economist, included $2,307,000,000 of plant spending and $2,315,000,000 of equipment expenditures last year, compared with $1,815,000,000 for plant and $1,126,000,000 for equipment the preceding year.

But, the board added, the biggest gains were due to public construction, and private plant outlays were only 50 per cent of 1929 levels.

Great Airport Opens in July

Hemisphere Will Be Served By 880-Acre Terminal At Miami, Fla.

MIAMI—A great new airfield linking the Americas will be opened to traffic July 1, with the completion of its mile-long runways and landing-field facilities.

The new Miami International airport terminal, an 880-acre field will provide facilities for handling air mail, freight and express shipments, and passenger service that are exceeded only by New York's LaGuardia field.

Three thousand workmen have been engaged since October, 1939, in clearing the field and building the runways. When completed it will have a main terminal building, hangars and accessory buildings, as well as a complete sanitary and sewage system and a fire protection water supply.

Erect Temporary Building
A temporary terminal building will be erected in July to clear air passengers and freight when the runways are ready and the permanent structure is expected to be ready before the close of the year.

Travel here at the one great airport, 1,132 planes entered or cleared Miami to and from the Caribbean Islands, Central and South America, carrying 48,814 passengers, 243,428 pounds of mail and 291,940 pounds of express value at more than $5,000,000. Domestic air lines, which carried 10,421 passengers, 381,617 pounds of mail and 104,219 pounds of express during the same period.

Much of the service to the West Indies, Central and South America points still is by seaplane, but straitliners and land planes are expected eventually to replace them, concentrating all commercial air travel here at the one great airport.

Base for Strato Clippers.
The home base of Pan American Airways' fleet of new strato-clippers, which now use the adjoining old Municipal airport, will be a new field. These great four-engine planes carry 30 passengers and weigh as much as 20,000 pounds, having a cruising range of 6,000 miles. The tall or vertical fin—one of the tallest towers as high as a five-story building.

Eastern air lines will move its Miami operations from the sixth street airport to the new field, and applications for accommodations for the new field, which plans a transatlantic service and Seaboard Airlines, which proposes a Baltimore service.

The new airport will be appreciated by the Department of Commerce, which is the Department of War, and the Department of Commerce, which is the Department of War, and the Department of Commerce, which is the Department of War.

County's Draft Quota Raised to 52, from 43 in General Upward Revision over State

The draft quota for Appomattox county has been raised from 43 to 52, an increase of 9, in line with a general upward revision in Virginia.

The county board has now mailed questionnaires to virtually all who registered last fall. The board will classify every man who registered and will proceed with examinations according to quotas.

Many cities and counties had big increases made in quotas this week, and cities which had furnished national guard troops were called upon to send heavy quotas of registrants.

Buy a Defense Savings Bond!
The Appomattox baseball team has two tough games this week-end, perhaps as hard as any to be faced in the Skyline league schedule. Saturday Appomattox goes to Bedford to play a greatly strengthened Hampton Looms team that scored 23 runs in its last game.

Sunday afternoon at 3:15, Buena Vista plays here at the Lee Theatre park. Although Appomattox won honors in the Skyline league last year, Buena Vista was the one team that seemed to hold a magic spell over the local nine, and when Buena Vista comes here Sunday, with their star pitcher, Doug Stacom, and an outfit every bit as strong as the year's Spec Gables in Appomattox fans will be offered a whale of a ball game.

Winner in the first two games, against Piney River and Glasgow, last week-end, Appomattox has the makings of another championship team this year. Manager Caldwell was assembled a potentially powerful hitting team, and the boys played their first two games without making an error in the field. As for the pitching, the picture is brighter than it was at this time last year. Gordon Bruce and Nurrey Bond turned in acceptable performances in the first game at Glasgow. It is probable that Bond will be used this Saturday, with the veteran Spec Gables in Appomattox fans will be offered a whale of a ball game.

A feature of last week-end's game was the hitting of rather Nathan Goff, "Snooty" collected seven hits in the two games, having a perfect day Sunday at Glasgow.

St. Clair had a perfect day at bat here Saturday against Piney River.

Start Mattress Project Here
Appomattox county is linking forces with the State and Federal agencies in making of cotton mattresses, which was started on May 1.

The mattress program is being sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture, The Extension Service, the AAA, and the National Cottonseed Company. The extension service of Appomattox county is cooperating with other agencies in now at work on this program.

If you have not yet made application for a mattress, applications may be made from one of the following offices: the office of the county farm and home agents, public health officers, or from the extension service of Appomattox county. Applications will be passed on by the AAA county committee.

To be eligible to make applications for mattresses the farm and other gross income must not exceed six hundred dollars. This project is being done under the supervision of the home demonstration agent, and Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, and local leaders in the county, and is being conducted in Ould's store building. At present about 150 applications have been received. We have cotton to make 480 mattresses. The white people will use the center the first three weeks in each month, and the colored people will use it the fourth week in each month.

Dovell Drops Candidacy
Richmond, May 7. (VPA) Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, speaker of the House of Delegates, has announced his withdrawal from the gubernatorial contest for the Democratic nomination, subject to the primary of August 5.

Mr. Dovell has stated that he is "tired" and the people are not interested primarily in the selection of a candidate for Governor. He did not indicate whether he would throw his support to any of the remaining candidates, Colgate W. Darden, Jr., State Senator Hudson C. C. of Henrico, or State Senator Vivian L. Page, of Norfolk.

Following Mr. Dovell's retirement from the race, Senator Page issued a statement that it only spurs me on in my candidacy for the governorship, and encourages me to be elected. He said that the people of the Commonwealth now as never before should have an opportunity to vote for a candidate who is free from political machine control and is a national domination within the party.
